

Strong winds whip through Fayette County

A Jefferson Township mobile home was totally destroyed and electrical lines were downed by heavy winds Thursday night.

"It had to be a tornado," Carl Ritchie, manager of the Dollar Motel near the intersection of I-71 and U.S. 35, said. He reported that several solid wood, porch pillars were picked up by the winds and carried approximately 50 to 60 feet.

"They're 16 feet tall and 12 inches wide," Ritchie said. "They have to weigh about 300 pounds."

The owners of the mobile home on the West Lancaster Road may also agree that the heavy winds formed into a tornado Thursday.

The trailer, owned by Donald Woods, 9191 W. Lancaster Road-NW, and its contents were reportedly a total loss. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported that the Woods family was not at home when the storm hit. Although no "official" reports of tornado sightings were made, some area residents claim a funnel cloud touched down in the western part of the county Thursday.

Mrs. Allen Garringer, 9428 Garringer-Edgfield Road-NW, near Edgfield, said a tornado set down in a wooded section of land near Edgfield. A local farmer, Neil Hughes said he spotted the funnel cloud about 8:30 p.m. according to Mrs. Garringer.

She said it went through the woods uprooting and damaging trees and laid down some corn in a nearby field. The heavy winds also broke out windows in a rental house she and her husband own.

"The air was really full of dirt," Mrs. Garringer said. "It looked like a sand storm."

A television tower was also blown off the Dollar Motel's roof and fell across a semi-tractor trailer rig parked beside the building. Only minor damage was done to the vehicle. Ritchie, the manager, could not estimate the financial loss.

The motel is located near the Lancaster Road—U.S. 35 intersection.

Work crews from the Dayton Power and Light Company's Washington C.H. office were out all night and were still on the job this morning, according to George Winkle, manager of the office. He said he is hoping for assistance from work crews from other district offices.

Much of the major damage, Winkle said, was due to power lines and poles being blown down by the winds. He added that trees blown into the power lines were also a factor in power outages in the area.

Wind damage was concentrated in the Leesburg, Greenfield and West Lancaster areas, Winkle stated.

Declining to estimate how many residents were left without electricity, he said he believes some homes were still without power this morning.

In a storm related incident Fayette County Sheriff's Deputy Robert Russell reported an abandoned barn along Ohio 38 in Paint Township near Yatesville, was burned to the ground late last night or early this morning.

"It was apparently struck by lightning last night," the deputy said.

He said he received the call about 7:42 a.m. and responded with the Bloomingburg Fire Department, but there was no access road to the building, which was already destroyed by the time they arrived.

"The closest we could get was 200 yards away," Russell stated.

The property belongs to Martha Ruff, 404 Rawlings St. No estimate of the financial loss was reported.

NO TORNADO? — A mobile home at 9191 W. Lancaster Road—NW in Jefferson Township was totally demolished by heavy winds that blew through the area Thursday night. Donald Woods, owner of the home, and his family were not at home when the storm hit, according to Fayette County sheriff's deputies, who listed the home and its contents as a total loss. The winds are believed by some township residents to stem from a tornado that reportedly touched down near Edgfield about 8:30 last night. However no official funnel cloud reports were given.

Damage estimated at $1 million

State ravaged by tornadoes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Violent thunderstorms accompanied by tornadoes rumbled across Ohio Thursday night, ripping off roofs, uprooting trees and causing heavy property damage in at least two areas.

Damage was estimated to total $1 million at both Fremont in Sandusky County and the village of Junction in northeastern Paulding County.

In Fremont, numerous windows were blown out of homes and businesses, fallen trees smashed cars and blocked streets, and electric and telephone lines were knocked down.

At Junction, where the sheriff's department confirmed a tornado had touched down, 27 homes in two subdivisions were damaged extensively.

Only one serious injury was reported, although 17 persons were treated at released at Fremont Memorial Hospital and 11 persons were treated for minor injuries suffered in the Junction twister.

Twelve-year-old John Mendoza Jr. of Fremont was in intensive care at a Fremont hospital with injuries he received when the car in which he was a passenger was showered with bricks and debris from the Penney's department store. The store was heavily damaged by wind.

No serious injuries were reported in either area, although 20 persons were treated and released at Fremont Memorial Hospital and 11 persons were treated for minor injuries suffered in the Junction twister.

A small contingent of Air National Guard troops who were on summer duty at Camp Perry was sent to Fremont to help protect against looting, and Mayor Richard Maier requested Gov. James A. Rhodes to order more guardsmen to assist in cleanup operations.

High winds blew off the roof of the Sandusky County Home on the outskirts of Fremont and its 120 residents had to be evacuated to Memorial Hospital and area nursing homes.

Witnesses reported seeing a funnel cloud pass over downtown Fremont about 30 feet above the ground.

A large section of the Sandusky

County Courthouse was blown into Flag Memorial Park across Park Avenue and the historic First Presbyterian Church, oldest and tallest building in Fremont, lost about half of its 100-foot steeple, officials said.

Other buildings damaged in the city of 18,000 included the library, junior high school and downtown businesses.

"The town looks raked," said Douglas L. Abbott, 21, a resident of near-downtown. "It looks like someone dumped trees on the city. There looks to be more on the ground tonight than there were standing yesterday."

Police Lt. Lynn Goebel said he was sitting in his cruiser at State and Front streets when he saw a funnel cloud coming down Front Street.

"The cruiser was lifted about four feet off the ground and slammed back down on its wheels," Goebel said. "A mannequin was sucked out of the Penney's window and flew against the windshield. I thought it was a pedestrian, at first," he said.

Police said the storm swept northeast through the city. A tornado reportedly touched down southeast of nearby Clyde, destroying a silo.

At one time Thursday night, the entire state was under a tornado watch and the National Weather Service had posted tornado warnings for dozens of counties.

The most severe weather activity was concentrated in the northern half of the state, where there were numerous reports of power outages, downed trees and flooded streets.

High winds caused damage to two sections of the Cedar Point amusement park at Sandusky but officials said there were no serious injuries.

Don Dittman, vice president for marketing, said a station for a narrow gauge railroad was flattened by a fallen tree in the Frontier Town section of the park and some trailers were damaged in the camper village for recreational vehicles.

Dittman said some persons received lacerations from flying objects and one reportedly suffered a broken arm.

A brick wall was blown down at a shopping mall in Sandusky and a house and tavern were unroofed at Wellington in southern Lorain County.

Funnel cloud sightings were reported in Erie, Huron, Seneca and Lorain counties.

Numerous sightings of funnel clouds were reported in southwestern Ohio

New year begins with $13 billion budget

Ohio budget wins approval

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's fiscal year began today with a budget of nearly $13 billion approved by Gov. James A. Rhodes for operation of state government over the next two years. Rhodes line-item vetoed $1.1 million in spending for public employee collective bargaining procedures.

The governor's light touch contrasted sharply with the situation two years ago, when he line-item vetoed 72 sections of a budget drafted to meet priorities of majority Democrats in the General Assembly.

Rhodes noted the 1977-79 budget, written by many of those same Democrats, also "reflects differences in priorities" from his own executive budget proposal.

But he added: "The General Assembly is to be commended for its efforts in developing a budget for the next biennium that provides a continuation and expansion of state services within the resources available to us." Education and Welfare account for about 75 per cent of the general appropriation, which calls for an overall increase of 18 per cent in state spending.

The governor mixed mild praise with criticism of dollar amounts in several areas.

"The budget you have sent me for approval underfunds our state colleges and universities and will probably result in tuition increases for at least some of the 340,000 students and their families this fall," he said.

Democrats gave higher education $1.27 billion, a 14.4 per cent increase over current spending, but trimmed $30 million from the amount proposed by Rhodes.

The governor also claimed inadequate amounts were included for Medicaid, the state prison system and the Ohio Youth Commission.

In rejecting the funding of two boards intended to implement collective bargaining for state, county and municipal workers, Rhodes said the legislature's limited right-to-strike bill was still pending and should be considered in its entirety.

In a third line-item veto, Rhodes barred a plan to force the Department of Natural Resources to gain state Controlling Board approval of its 1977-79 spending plan. Democrats on the board, a legislative vehicle, have been in continuous political conflict with the natural resources agency.

"This is a highly irregular procedure which has no other apparent purpose than to cause the department unnecessary delay and uncertainty in administering its programs," the governor said.

"Severe cuts in appropriations for the department could result in a reduction of the services provided the millions of Ohioans who visit our state parks, campgrounds, beaches and natural areas every year," he said.

Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, said Rhodes assured him the "basic substance of the budget is satisfactory."

"I am glad the administration and the legislature are so close on the budget for the next two years," Ocasek said. But the Senate leader added that the majority party would seriously consider attempting to override some line-item vetoes. He did not say which ones.

The House gave Rhodes a second component of the budget Thursday, a $1.54 billion spending plan for the departments of transportation and highway safety. House members agreed 85-1 with Senate amendments, adding substantial amounts for the Ohio Highway Patrol and a law enforcement computer information system.

Bloomingburg grain facility purchased

The Queen City Grain Co. has purchased the Holly Farms grain facilities in Bloomingburg according to James Bobb, president of Queen City Grain. Bobb reported that the deal has been finalized and the new Queen City Grain Co. facilities are now open and operating. The purchase price of the Holly Farms facilities was not announced.

Robert Mace, who managed the facility while it was still owned by the North Carolina based Holly Farms Poultry Industries, Inc., will stay on as manager. Bobb noted that there will be no change in personnel and some employees might be added.

The grain facility, located at 4201 Ohio 238-NE, presently has a 450,000 bushel capacity. Bobb hopes to expand the facility to handle over one million bushels of grain.

The new owner also has plans to construct facilities for multi-train car shipping. Grain shipped by the railroad will be sent to export points on the east coast. Grain will also be carried by truck and Bobb has plans to construct a semi tractor-trailer dumping facility.

Presently, the firm is accepting corn, wheat, soy beans and other small grain.

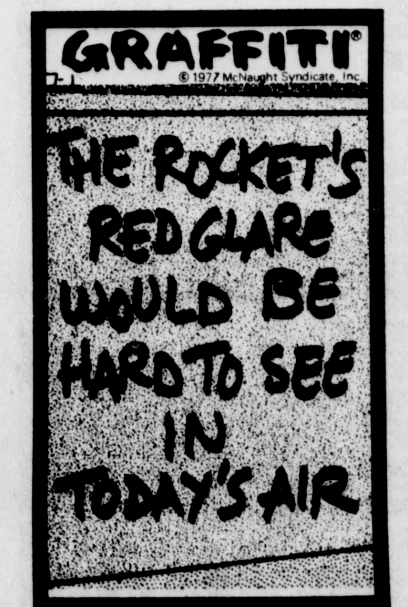

Bobb, who now resides in Cincinnati but plans to move to Sabina in the near future, started in the grain business with Bobb Brothers, Inc., which operated grain facilities in Bainbridge and Leesburg.

The Queen City Grain Co. did own facilities in Louisville and Cincinnati, but those facilities have been sold. The Cincinnati elevators were sold last July to an Indiana firm.

The grain company now has plans to build a river terminal for grain traffic on the Ohio River near Cincinnati.

The Queen City Grain Co. purchased a 67-acre tract of land three miles northwest of Washington C. H. from the DuPont Co. this past winter.

Bobb had hoped to build a grain facility on that site, but changed his plans when the Holly Farm facilities were offered for sale. Bobb said the 67-acre tract located on U.S. 35 and bounded by the Chessie System railroad tracks and the Bush Road would remain as farm land.

Washington C.H. Jaycees slate variety of July Fourth events

Fireworks, horseshoe pitching, frog jumping contests, and the nearly forgotten sounds of a community band will grace the Washington C.H. Jaycee's Fourth of July celebration.

The annual festivities will get off on a right foot at 11 a.m. Monday with the start of the annual parade commemorating America's 201st birthday.

The parade will form near the intersection of Willard Street and Columbus Avenue and proceed through the downtown business district to the Fayette County Fairgrounds.

Grand marshal of this year's parade is Kenneth Craig.

Pictures and a story on the 11 "Little Miss Firecracker" finalists appear on page 9 of today's Record-Herald.

At 12 noon, the "Little Miss Firecracker" contest and the horseshoe pitching competition will begin.

The ten finalist in the "Little Miss Firecracker" competition, which will be held in the Mahan Building, will undergo the scrutiny of a panel of judges led by George Funk, programming director of the Ohio Jaycees.

Trophies will be awarded for the first four places in the horseshoe pitching contest. The tournament is open to all Fayette County residents. Registration will begin at 11:30 a.m. at the fairgrounds.

For the children many activities have been planned. At 1:30 p.m. the frog jumping contest begins. Each child may enter his, or her, own frog or rent a contending amphibian from the Jaycees for a nominal fee.

Race track games will begin at 2:30 p.m. and several area merchants have donated prizes for the winners.

A ping pong tournament, for young and old alike, will also be held in the afternoon. Trophies will be awarded to the winners.

Bingo games will be held most of the afternoon and evening in the youth building on the fairgrounds. The games will begin at 1:30 p.m. and continue until the start of the fireworks display.

Other day-long events will be the dunking machine where area residents can try their arms at knocking Jaycee members into a tub of water with baseballs. There will also be rides offered around the fairgrounds on a hay wagon.

The wives of Jaycee members will operate a concession stand at the fairgrounds offering all types of foods for a warm summer's day appetite.

For the teenagers, "Sass," a rock band from Cincinnati will be playing in the Mahan Building. The annual dance begins at 8:30 p.m.

Shortly before the Jaycees' grand Fourth of July finale — the fireworks display — the Kiwanis Community Band will play an array of popular tunes and marches in front of the fairgrounds grandstand.

Slayers sought in southern wilds

MAGAZINE, Ark. (AP) — Searchers led by the FBI concentrated on forests within a 50-mile radius of this western Arkansas village for two gunmen who killed a town marshal, wounded a park ranger and apparently abducted the ranger's partner.

All-points bulletins also have been issued in Oklahoma, Texas and Louisiana.

The search, involving airplanes, a helicopter and a 125-man posse, was suspended at dark Thursday, but roadblocks were maintained through the night, said John Kelly, the FBI agent in charge.

"They are real killers. These are real bad folks," Kelly said of the hunted men. The FBI released composite sketches of the two that were prepared from information provided by the wounded ranger. Described as in their early 20s and wearing blue jeans, they were believed armed with .357-magnum pistols and a .44-magnum pistol, authorities said.

Marvin Richie, 42, the marshal of this community of 677, was shot in the head and killed Wednesday in the trunk of his police car. He was handcuffed to David Small, 27, a part-time U.S. Corps of Engineers ranger who was wounded in the right shoulder. Small was listed in stable condition.

Small's partner, Opal James, 58, was apparently abducted by the two men and the three left in the Corps pickup truck. Authorities said the rangers were unarmed.

The marshal had gone to investigate a car found abandoned here on Wednesday. The FBI said the abandoned car linked the two gunmen to the disappearance of two Louisiana fishermen.

The car was registered to Alton Wilson, 66, of Franklinton, La. Wilson and his companion, Ray Jones Sr., also of Franklinton, were last seen Tuesday when they left to go fishing along the Bogue Chitto River some 350 miles southeast of here. Washington (La.) Parish Sheriff Willie Blair said he believed Wilson and Jones may have been killed and their car stolen.

Small said he and James were patrolling the Blue River Reservoir when they noticed the marshal's car and went to investigate, authorities said. The U.S. Corps of Engineers operates water recreation areas across the country, including eight in Arkansas.

Girl Scout safe; suspect arrested

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Charlotte Grosse, who was dragged screaming from a Girl Scout campground two days ago, was found safe today and a suspect was arrested, sheriff's officials said.

Screaming, "Please don't take me!" the 15-year-old girl was dragged from her tent at the camp on Wednesday.

Today she called the sheriff's office about 10 a.m. to say her abductor had kept his pledge and set her free on Siesta Key, the beach area off Sarasota. Sheriff's Cpl. Ray Pilon said.

Charlotte had been allowed to make her first call to her parents on Wednesday night to tell them the kidnaper "just wanted to get rid of her," Pilon said.

Officers rushed to pick up Charlotte, and shortly afterward apprehended a suspect in the case in the same beach area, he said.

There were no immediate details of where the girl had been held or the identity of her abductor.

Her parents, Richard and Carol Grosse, had heard from her 17 hours after the abduction and had been told that she would be freed. She promised another call shortly, but that call did not come.

The abduction came two weeks after three Girl Scouts were found sexually assaulted and murdered in their sleeping bags at a campground near Locust Grove, Okla.

A prison escapee, Gene LeRoy Hart, has been charged with the murders and the FBI has entered the search. Agents said they think Hart was in the area before the June 13 slayings but a widespread search that included door-to-door interviews and circulation of Hart's pictures have failed to turn up any trace of him.

Congress to support B1 cutbacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is expected to go along with President Carter's decision to halt production of the B1 bomber, but not without a fight from supporters of the costly plane.

Democratic leaders in the House and Senate quickly expressed support for Carter's surprise decision to scrap the B1, and the President predicted his verdict would be endorsed on Capitol Hill.

Carter said he had the support of Defense Secretary Harold Brown, who scheduled a news conference today to discuss the decision.

But congressional supporters of the B1 pledged to resist efforts to delete funding for the plane.

"The President has the right to make recommendations, but under the Constitution, Congress has the responsibility for the defense of the country," said Rep. George Mahon, D-Texas, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. He vowed to fight for B1 money.

The congressional battle over the plane will focus on a $110.6 billion defense appropriations bill containing $1.5 billion for production of five B1s. The measure was approved Thursday on a 333 to 54 vote in the House just hours after Carter said the United States does not need the B1 and its production should be halted while testing and research continue.

Rep. Joseph Addabbo, D-N.Y., claimed there were enough House members willing to change their stand and reverse a vote Tuesday that kept the B1 money in the bill. But Addabbo, who sponsored the unsuccessful effort earlier in the week, said he decided to let Senate Democrats chop out the funds rather than ask House members to change their votes.

Carter said he thought many congressmen who voted for the B1 funds on Tuesday believed he was going to urge production of the bomber. Prior to his decision there had been widespread speculation that the President would authorize a limited production of the B1.

Instead, Carter recommended deployment of cruise missiles, which represent a weapons technology in which the United States is believed to lead the Soviet Union by about five years.

A defense spokesman said the Pentagon envisions arming about 250 of its existing B52 bombers with cruise missiles, which have a range of up to 1,500 miles.

The missiles will cost between $500,000 to $1 million each, the spokesman said, and the cost of refitting B52s to carry the cruise will be $700,000, exclusive of engine and wing modifications.

Even so, deployment of cruise missiles and continued use of the 20-to 25-year-old B52s are seen as a savings over the B1, which at a minimum cost of $101.7 million per copy would have been the most expensive combat plane ever. The defense spokesman said the B1 would have been the best option if it had been about 20 per cent cheaper.

The cruise missile has been one of the key stumbling blocks in strategic arms negotiations with the Soviet Union. The Russians have said the weapon should be included in any strategic arms limitation, but U.S. negotiators disagree.

Tornadoes

with only one possible touchdown. The Carlisle City Hall, in Warren County, lost its roof. Debris also knocked down a utility pole outside causing a power outage for the whole town.

"The council meeting just broke up before it hit," said Sgt. Robert Pell, "it would have shook 'em up pretty good if they were still here." However, Pell said it was not known whether the damage was caused by a tornado or a high wind.

The Preble County Sheriff's department reported three funnel clouds but none touched down. There was wind damage in the New Paris area, the dispatcher said.

There were at least three unconfirmed sightings in the Cincinnati area but no touchdowns.

A large broke loose on the Ohio River during the storm and damaged three pleasure boats at a marina on the Ohio side, then continued on downstream. Tugs were dispatched to retrieve it, police said.

Tornadoes and thunderstorms across the Midwest have caused some damage and at least one person has been killed. Audrey Lighty, 45, of Hodgenville, Ky., was killed Thursday evening when a tornado overturned her mobile home.

Tornadoes were recorded in six states. Illinois had seven, Indiana six, Ohio five, and Kentucky three. Wisconsin and Missouri each had one. Elsewhere, slow-moving thunderstorms caused heavy rainfall in southeastern Missouri, extreme southern Illinois and the western tip of Kentucky.

Heavy thunderstorms ranged in a band from the lower Great Lakes, down the Ohio valley, across northern Arkansas and southern Missouri and across eastern Oklahoma. Showers and isolated thunderstorms ranged across northern California and Nevada as well as southwestern Texas, the Gulf coast from Louisiana through Florida, New England and the western Great Lakes.

The western half of the nation was mostly clear to partly cloudy while the eastern was mostly cloudy. Temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 48 at Gillette, Wyo., to 100 at Needles, Calif.

Stock list mixed again

NEW YORK (AP) —The stock market was mixed today, leveling off after Thursday's modest upturn.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks showed a very slight fractional loss in early trading.

But gainers took a 3-2 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts noted some negative response to the jump in the money supply reported late Thursday by the Federal Reserve, which might have been taken as a negative sign for future Fed credit policy.

Experts frequently warn against trying to draw many conclusions from the weekly Fed statistics, but some investors nevertheless watch them closely.

On Thursday the Dow Jones industrial average posted a 2.97 gain to 916.30.

Gainers outnumbered losers by a 7-5 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume came to 19.41 million shares, against an even 19 million on Wednesday.

The NYSE's composite index rose .20 to 55.10.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .74 at 120.32.

TV Viewing

LOS ANGELES AP—She came to TV on Jan. 5, 1976, granddaughter of the "Fernwood Flasher," worrying about "waxy yellow buildup" and then a nearby mass murder of five persons, two goats and eight chickens.

Tonight, no murder occurs in "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman," the seriously satirical soap opera starring Louise Lasser as America's most famed, most spacey housewife in pig-tails and little-girl togs.

But she'll worry about "waxy yellow buildup" again. And a man — not grandpa — will again do indecent exposure. Both events are of great historical import and consequence.

Tonight marks the 325th and last MH-2 episode, ends the series whose tales of murder, lust, impotence and general weirdness made many who worry about TV dwell at length on what it all means.

The show was taped last June 17, shortly after producer Norman Lear said he was folding the series before its popularity fizzled.

If you've not been a nightly "Hartman" viewer but plan to watch the finale, a brief update is in order.

Lear's office says Mary vanished two weeks ago. Husband Tom (Gregg Mullavey) can't find her. Her sometime lover, Police Sgt. Dennis Foley (Bruce Solomon) claims he doesn't know where she is.

So, when the show starts, she's not among the enraged citizens of Fernwood as they hold a town meeting to depose their thieving, lecherous mayor, Merle Jeeter (Dabney Coleman).

His Honor unexpectedly arrives to admit his guilt, admit he hired an ex-con as the police chief and confess to abusing the public trust.

He makes restitution, returns an expensive watch and his Cadillac, and says he's leaving "just the way I come into town. I'm leaving without a shred of dignity." He is wearing a yellow raincoat.

But the townfolk change their mind and keep him on. Which sets the stage for his debut — and presidential candidacy — on "Fernwood Tonight," a 13-week summer series starring Martin Mull.

That show, which starts — no kidding — on July 4 on about 30 stations, also comes from the Lear works. It's a bizarre kind of "Tonight" show that emanates from Fernwood.

In it, Mull plays Barth Gimble, a popular TV personality forced to exit Miami amid rumors of payola and misconduct with young girls.

He's in tonight's finale as an unhappy prospective donor of a kidney for Mary's ailing kid sister. It could well be a publicity stunt.

See, his mod manager arrives at the hospital with a reporter, says "that kidney is going to make him a star," and suggests this headline: "Gimble Has Heart, Donates Kidney."

There ensues a rousing scene with all the regulars except Miss Lasser. She only appears in the closing moment, wearing a kitchen floor. The door opens and ... aw, go see for yourself.

Thus does the actress, who wanted out of the show, leave it. But her colleagues, when "Fernwood Tonight" ends, will return next fall in another syndicated Lear effort, "Fernwood U.S.A."

In that series ... good heavens, my brain just caught fire.

Carter's appointment plan working out

President Carter's reliance on an advisory board to screen prospective ambassadors has worked out pretty well. With the roster nearly completed, it can be said that in general the President has kept his campaign pledge not to appoint "unqualified persons to major diplomatic posts."

The new system did produce some nominees lacking experience in foreign affairs. The ratio of career diplomats to others at the head of embassies remains disappointingly about the same as before. On the whole, however, advances have been made in getting away from the practice of handing out ambassadorships as rewards for political contributions or other support.

There are exceptions to this generality; several active supporters of the Carter campaign, none known for expertise in foreign affairs, were named. The American Foreign Service Association, a kind of union for career foreign service personnel, publicly objected that five of the President's nominees were "unqualified for their ambassadorial assignments."

This is a matter of judgment. It is arguable that some individuals of great competence in their fields may make good ambassadors even though they lack prior involvement in foreign affairs. We nevertheless feel that, except in very rare cases, the choice of conspicuous political supporters to be in command at embassies abroad is at odds with sound policy.

THESE DAYS...By John Chamberlain

Wanted: safe for deep sea mining

The UN is trying to wrap up a complicated Law of the Sea treaty by July 15, with Elliot Richardson carrying the ball as the chief U.S. negotiator. The chief stumbling block that stands in the way of any agreement coming out of the deliberations is that the UN member countries have insisted that a treaty which will embrace 365 separate articles must be accepted in toto as an "all-or-nothing" entity.

When it comes to fishing rights, free transit of the oceans, regulation of commercial navigation, pollution and scientific research, the differences between "haves" and "have-nots" in the UN are negotiable. But when it is a question of mining the ocean beds, which are reputedly rich in manganese, cobalt, nickel and copper that lie around in recoverable nodules, the nations which have capital available to set up consortiums want to be guaranteed against the threat of possible expropriation somewhere down the line. The possibility of a Third World-Communist gang-up against Western investors in deep sea mining projects is conceivable.

Idi Amin, for one, is not going to provide any money to search for manganese at the bottom of the Pacific or Indian oceans. Nor does Idi Amin have the slightest technological competence to contribute. But Idi Amin's Uganda would not be the only landlocked nation to demand its fair share of the profits from any consortium that may succeed in extracting mineral riches from the Deep that is the "common heritage of mankind."

No one would begrudge the have-nots of the Third World from benefitting from an ocean-borne plenty; it would be one easy way of helping them out. But nobody is going to take shares in a deep sea mining consortium unless there are national or international guarantees against the risk of spoliation by UN majority vote.

At the present moment there are four consortiums ready to commit a total of some $2 billion to mine the Pacific for manganese and other metals that the U.S. has to import. The consortiums are "international," but it is no secret that they depend on the U.S. for the major part of their capital funds and their technological expertise. U.S. Steel is linked with Union Miniere of Belgium in something called Deep Sea Venture. International Nickel is allied with German, Japanese and Canadian firms in a second consortium. A third group is composed of Kennecott Copper, Rio Tinto Zinc and Consolidated Gold Fields of Great Britain, Noranda Mines of Canada and Mitsubishi of Japan. Finally, Lockheed is busy at the moment in searching for foreign partners for its own contemplated spurge in seabed mining.

The four consortiums are not trying to hold the UN up for any specific insurance against politically inspired seizures. But they want Congressional legislation in Washington that would guarantee the safety of their multi-billion dollar commitment if and when the Law of the Sea treaty is approved.

Elliot Richardson is in a position to tell the UN that the U.S. companies have the drilling techniques, the geological analysis expertise, the shipbuilding plans and the money that are needed to make ocean bed mining a reality. The prospecting for manganese has already disclosed the location of huge nodule beds in the Pacific.

We could go ahead with a mining program without waiting for a Law of the Sea treaty. Deep sea mining could give us manganese and cobalt self-sufficiency by 1990. But unilateral action is something the Carter Administration would prefer to avoid.

In any case, the prospects of getting anything going are nil unless Congress itself is prepared to safeguard an American venture, whether by a guarantee of naval protection of mining ships or government insurance against possible UN expropriation.

Your Horoscope

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

SATURDAY, JULY 2

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)
A first-rate period for inventiveness and bringing out dormant talents. Put your strength behind unusual projects, but only if they are truly worthwhile.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)
An original idea could be developed, eventually turned to profit. Along these lines, it's a good period for pushing your luck.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)
Careful exploration of offerings and soundly directed imagination needed now. Don't mix business and personal affairs.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)
You can take giant steps toward advancement now — if you have the ambition and know-how. Don't launch into uncharted seas, however.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)
Others are observing, some following your example. Your best foot forward! Stress vital points, but no exaggerating or cutting corners too close!

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)
Excessive spending could prove disastrous now. Don't speculate or indulge in extravagant whims, and watch the budget even when making minor purchases.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)
Don't let your curiosity get the better of you — especially in a romantic situation. Too many questions will only yield evasive answers.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)
A day of mixed influences. Be careful in your approaches. Others may read more into your words and actions than you intend.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)
A long-pending domestic problem can be solved now, so devote the early part of the day to this task. Then you can feel free to go on to more stimulating interests.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
Some tension indicated. Avoid highly strung or neurotic persons, and keep out of situations which could needlessly involve you in others' problems.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
Mixed influences. You may encounter some frustrating situations during the a.m., but the tide will turn in your favor later in the day.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)
Some new trends in the making. Study carefully and be sure to check all propositions before accepting. Romance and travel favored.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with many talents through which you could achieve a happy, successful life, but — and this is a BIG but, indeed — you often fail to reach your highest potentials because you have a tendency toward lethargy, lack of ambition and such a feeling of "what's the use?" that you eventually drift into moods of chronic discouragement. All this can be avoided, however, if you will learn to discipline yourself in your early years and concentrate on developing your very best traits and realize that you have a very real mission in life. On the better side of your nature, there is beauty, rhythm and a humanitarianism which should not be denied. Properly developed, you could become an outstanding teacher, physician or nurse; could excel in music, designing or dancing. Curb that tendency toward inertia and the world can be yours.

Ohioans unhappy with B1 decision

By ANDY LIPPMAN
Associated Press Writer

Officials at several Ohio manufacturing plants are expressing their disappointment over President Carter's decision not to go ahead with production of the B1 bomber.

With their disappointment is a realization that they will lose potential growth and profit from Thursday's decision.

James Daniell, president of RMI Co. of Niles, expressed bitter disappointment, but admitted that "RMI will not drop out of the sky just because the B1 bomber did."

RMI produces titanium, a light and durable metal used in some types of aircraft such as Boeing 747s and the proposed B1.

Robert Wehrenberg, president of Cleveland Pneumatic Co., said his firm had 25 employees working on a B1 project now and that figure would have risen to 150.

Now, Wehrenberg said his Cleveland-based company will shift its emphasis to 747s.

General Electric is also looking for new customers to take up the slack after President Carter's announcement.

GE's Evendale plant had been gearing up for production of the F101 engine which would have served as the power plant for the giant bomber.

At the peak stages of production in 1981, GE officials estimated there would have been about 4,500 persons working on the project, which would have supplied engines for 244 B1s. There are currently 1,100 persons in the research and development phase, which continues.

"We are greatly disappointed by the President's statement recommending that the B1 strategic aircraft production program be terminated," a GE spokesman said following the announcement, which was made in Washington.

"The aircraft engine group has worked diligently for seven years to develop and produce what we believe is the finest power plant ever built for the defense of our country."

The Air Force last year announced contracts for production of the first three B1 bombers including an $80 million contract to GE to build 12 B1 engines and to tool up for further production.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: ANYBODY AT ALL HAS A RIGHT TO TALK ABOUT HIMSELF — PROVIDED HE KNOWS HOW TO BE ENTERTAINING. — CHARLES BEAUDELAIRE

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Keeps old conquests mounted and framed

DEAR ABBY: I was recently wed to a wonderful man in all respects except one. He insists on keeping the pictures of all his previous girlfriends, and he has had quite a few.

He has them all neatly mounted in a large picture album, which he insists on leaving on our coffee table, along with our wedding album.

When we have friends over, to be sure they don't miss it, he starts going through the albums, bragging about all the chicks he's had.

I voluntarily destroyed all the pictures I had of myself and previous acquaintances, and I think he should do the same.

He knows how I feel because I've mentioned it several times. He says I am being childish—that there is nothing wrong with recalling a few memories. His keeping and showing that album hurts me deeply. How can I get him to stop, Abby. Should I destroy them myself and put an end to it?

HURT

DEAR HURT: No, but tell him that his recalling those memories hurts you deeply and to please put them out of sight. A married man who needs to brag about the "chicks" he's had is an insecure little boy whose "manhood" needs constant reassuring. He also has a touch of cruelty.

DEAR ABBY: A neighbor boy and I are pretty good friends, but he's never asked me for a date. He's 19 and I'm 18. He is quite handsome and by no means shy, but he hasn't dated much. I'm a little bit overweight, but have been told that I have a pretty face and good personality.

Now, here's what I want to ask you. If I were to tell him that I could be taken to the movies, my hands could be held, and I would enjoy sweet talk more than some good-looking girl who hears it every Friday night, would he get the wrong idea?

CINDY

DEAR CINDY: No, he'd probably get the RIGHT idea.

DEAR ABBY: How does one forget someone he loves? I can't seem to get over her. It's not true that time heals. The pain seems to be getting worse as the days and weeks go by.

I have even thought about moving to another city, but no matter where I go I'll see the kind of car she drives, and every time I turn on the radio I'll hear the songs we both liked. I'll still think of her when I see her favorite color, or actor, or television program. She is on my mind constantly, even though there is no hope of reviving the relationship.

I know it would be best to forget her, but as long as there is still love (and there is, as much now as ever), is it possible to forget? Can you kill love? If so, tell me how.

PIECES

DEAR PIECES: You can't "kill" love, but you can let it die quietly from malnutrition. Don't permit yourself to dwell on thoughts of her. The moment they come into your mind, drive them out with another thought about something else. The less you allow "her" to live in your memory, the sooner you'll get over her.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, July 1, the 182nd day of 1977. There are 183 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1867, the Dominion of Canada was created by the British North America Act.

On this date:
In 1862, the U.S. Congress established the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

In 1863, the Civil War Battle of Gettysburg began.

In 1881, the American Red Cross was incorporated, with Clara Barton as president.

In 1898, Theodore Roosevelt and his Rough Riders carried out a victorious assault on San Juan Hill in Cuba in the Spanish-American War.

In 1958, construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway was completed.

In 1966, the Medicare health program for elderly Americans went into effect.

Ten years ago: The Communist Party in China proclaimed the overthrow of President Liu Shao-chi.

Five years ago: John Mitchell resigned as President Richard Nixon's campaign manager with the explanation that his wife, Martha Mitchell, had told him to choose either her or politics.

One year ago: In Spain, the unexpected resignation of Prime Minister Carlos Arias Navarro and his Cabinet threw the country's program for democratic change into confusion.

Today's birthdays: Actor James Cagney is 73. Actress Olivia de Havilland is 61. Actor Farley Granger is 52.

Thought for today: "We like a man to come right out and say what he thinks — if we agree with him." — Mark Twain, American humorist, 1835-1910.

Ohio University, although not chartered until 1804, was first conceived in 1786 when founders of the Ohio Company met in the Bunch of Grapes Tavern in Boston, Mass., and discussed the future founding of a university in the West which would be like Yale. When the company's plans were completed two townships were set aside along the Hocking River, now the Hocking, for a campus and its support in Athens County. —AP

Witnesses remain neutral

There is growing concern that human rights are threatened in a growing number of countries undergoing internal changes due to revolution and political upheavals. Wendell N. Hoppes, spokesman for Jehovah's Witnesses in Washington C.H., said his religious organization is now restricted in its activities in 47 countries throughout the world.

Recent studies have revealed that many people are now subject to harassment and persecution due to race, religion, national origin and political affiliation.

The New York Times, Sunday, Mar. 13, reported the following: "The State Department, in reports made public today, has informed Congress that, with the exception of Western European nations and a few others, human rights are being violated in varying degrees by most of the 82 countries that receive security assistance. . . . The reports are expected to be criticized, both by countries concerned, and by human rights groups that may find some reports overly kind."

Hoppes observed that in 1962 the General Assembly of the United Nations requested the Commission on Human Rights to prepare a declaration against religious intolerance. At the same time, it requested a declaration against racial discrimination. Originally, the Assembly had requested a "Declaration on the Elimination of All Forms of Religious Intolerance." But the current title is different. It reads, "Elimination of All Forms of Intolerance Based on Religion or Belief." Some might interpret this to cast religion or belief in the role of the one causing intolerance that needs elimination.

Hoppes referred to the preamble of the document where it states, "The disregard and infringement of human rights and fundamental freedoms, in particular, of the right to freedom of thought, conscience, religion or belief, have brought directly or indirectly, wars of great suffering to mankind, especially where they serve as a means of foreign interference in the internal affairs of other states and amount to kindling hatred between peoples and nations."

"In other words," he said, "Numerous compromise paragraphs proposed come down hard on religion. It declares the 'freedom of religion and belief should not be abused as a means to pursue any ideology or practice contrary to the goals of world peace, social justice, friendship between peoples and states.' Therefore, if a country chose to declare that freedom of religion was being abused, causing a threat to world peace, it could call upon this paragraph to back up restrictions on that freedom."

There is a problem of balance on the subject and member nations in the U.N. are concerned about past and present abuses created by religious intolerance, according to Hoppes. Northern Ireland — Catholics against Protestants; Middle East — Jews against Moslems; Cyprus — Greek orthodox against Moslems; Philippines — Moslems against Catholics. In Ethiopia, the Moslems of Eritrea are at war with Coptic Catholics, he said. In Lebanon, the people came through a tragic, religiously-inspired war between those professing Christianity and Islam. The record of that war speaks for itself.

"However, in Lebanon," Hoppes added, "1,800 Jehovah's Witnesses have been completely neutral toward both the religious and political aspects of the conflict. Wherever we live," he said, "we want to do God's will and be no part of any conflict."

Catholics split over ordination regs

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A deep-rooted conflict has arisen between the Vatican and Eastern rite Catholics in this country over the ordination of a married man to the priesthood.

The strains go beyond that specific action, however, involving the insistence of Eastern rite churches on their independent jurisdiction over worship forms and rules of ministry. "The Western Church has failed so far to understand the rights and autonomy of Eastern churches," says the Rev. Joseph Francavilla of the Holy Transfiguration Melkite Church in Vienna, Va.

Special services in Madison Mills

"That's crucial to the whole matter. We've been looked on as stepchildren by Roman bureaucrats. It's caused a very strained relationship."

There are nearly a million Eastern Catholics in this country of various rites, mainly the Ukrainian, Ruthenian and Melkite-Greek rites.

Although their liturgy and disciplines parallel those of Eastern Orthodoxy, numbering six million in this country, the Eastern rite Catholics differ in that they are in union with the Latin rite Church headed by the Roman Pope.

The particular conflict emerged after Melkite rite Patriarch Masimos V. Hakim of Damascus ordained in Montreal, Canada, a Brooklyn, N.Y., married man and father of two children, the Rev. Romanos Russo, 35, to serve in the United States.

The Vatican Congregation for Eastern rite churches denounced the ordination as "illicit."

But Patriarch Hakim, in a strongly worded statement, spurned the criticism, calling it an attempt at Home mission opens

The Assemblies of God opened a home missions church Wednesday evening in the cafeteria of the Washington Middle School, 323 Paint St.

Services in the endeavor will be conducted at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sundays and 7 p.m. Wednesdays.

The Assemblies of God is headquartered in Springfield, Missouri, and is the largest pentecostal fellowship in the world, according to Pastor Raymond L. Umstead.

Rev. Umstead formerly served as pastor of the Wilmington assembly for 12 years. For more information concerning the services or the assembly itself call the pastor at 335-4524.

Bible school begins

The Wesleyan Holiness Church, 6181 Washington-Waterloo Road, will begin its Vacation Bible School on Monday, July 4, and continue through Friday, July 8.

Classes will be held from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. daily. For more information call the Wesleyan Christian Day School at 335-4794.

"jurisdictional Latinization" and "an affront to the integrity of Catholic Eastern churches."

It is not "illicit in any way," he said, and for the Vatican office to make such a claim is "totally false, misleading and offensive to church unity."

In most cases of married Eastern rite priests in this country, they were ordained in central Europe or the Middle East before coming here, but Rome is particularly edgy about married Americans being ordained to serve alongside the predominantly Latin rite priests, who must be celibate.

In the Eastern areas, where there are more than 10 million Eastern rite believers in union with Roman Catholicism, married priests are common.

Canadian minister preaches at camp

Dr. Minton C. Johnston, author and interim minister of Markham Baptist Church, from Toronto, Canada, will be the Sunday evening preacher at the Lancaster United Methodist Camp Ground at 7 p.m. Sunday.

Dr. Johnston has produced many pageants for the Baptist Conventions in Ontario and Quebec, Canada. He has also published three books based on his sermons broadcast weekly over the Canadian broadcasting network.

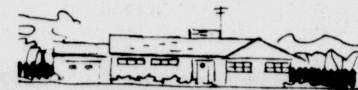

The 10:30 a.m. preacher will be the Rev. Donald Bible, program assistant for the Columbus South District of the United Methodist Church.

The movie, "Jesus Christ Superstar" will be shown tonight at 8:30 p.m. and Darryl Driscoll, a magician, will present a magic show at 8 p.m. Saturday, July 2.

Future programs include an appearance by the Apostolic Clefts on Saturday, July 9, at 8 p.m. The Apostolic Clefts won the Gospel Singing Contest sponsored jointly by the Ohio State Fair and radio station WCVO-FM.

The public is invited to attend all of these programs, which are held in the historic 2,000-seat auditorium located in the middle of the camp ground.

For more information call Camp Director John G. Medaugh at 653-2119 or write the Lancaster United Methodist Camp Ground, 2151 W. Fair Ave., Lancaster, 43130.

Marriage announced

Connie Kay Renchen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Custer Renchen of East Danville, and James Wesley Hart Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hart Sr. of Blanchester, formerly of Staunton, exchanged marriage vows June 8, in the Belmont Methodist Church chapel in Dayton, with the Rev. Charles S. Brown performing the double-ring ceremony.

Miss Peggy Lewis, maid of honor, and Mike Dotson, best man, both of Hillsboro were the couples only attendants.

A buffet reception was held following the ceremony in the home of the groom's aunt, Mrs. Margaret Seely in Kettering.

The new Mrs. Hart, a graduate of the Mowrystown High School, is a student nurse at Christ Hospital, Cincinnati. Her husband, a graduate of Blanchester High School and Laurel Oaks Vocational School, is employed by the Bennington Construction Co., Hillsboro.

The couple is residing in East Danville.

Guests welcomed at bridge-luncheon

Six tables were at play following the luncheon of the Ladies Bridge group Thursday in the Washington Country Club. Three guests, Mrs. Louis Morrison of Clarksburg, Mrs. Douglas Spayth of Springfield, and Mrs. Fred Enslin of Wahsington C. H., were present.

Summer roses in pretty containers centered the bridge tables, and the winners of bridge were Mrs. Charlotte Willis, first; Mrs. Aulbin Hedges, second; and Mrs. Hazel Devins, third.

Another card game followed, in which Mrs. McKinley Kirk was the winner. Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Howard Wright, Mrs. Wash Lough and Mrs. B. M. Slagle.

Casual Comfort

COVER-UP terry jumpsuit, functional yet comfortable as a tropic breeze, is designed with an easy drawstring waist to top a bikini or maillot. It will double for wear around the house or hotel room as well as around the pool or beach.

Col. James Kilbourne, who surveyed and named Bucyrus in his youth, later told how he happened to choose the name of the town, honoring his boyhood hero, the Persian general Cyrus and adding "Bu" as a prefix for "beautiful." He was so enamored of the town, one historian says, that he wrote an eight-stanza poem in praise of it.

CANANAS, banana cake baked in juice cans, and "Hi There" Cookies, made with bananas and oatmeal, will be bright messages in your camper's "care" packages this summer.

Banana treats brighten your camper's 'care' package

No sooner than you have the kids packed and off to summer sleep-away camp then you're off packing again. This time it's the traditional camper's special, the camp "care" package from home brimming with goodies that satisfy appetites raised by endless activity and remind your far-away offspring of home.

We have two really amusing ideas for this year's camper's "care" package: "Hi There" Cookies and Cananas. "Hi There" Cookies are big, round, banana oatmeal cookies with funny faces made with halved banana slices and raisins. "Hi There's" are perfect travelers because they're made with mellow, honey-like bananas that lend their own natural moisture and sweet goodness. Pack fresh tasting "Hi There's" between layers of waxed paper to prevent sticking or breakage. You'll probably want to make a double batch of these funny faces, one to mail to the kids and one to keep for your family at home.

Cananas are clever banana cakes that are baked in greased six ounce juice cans, combining all the textures and flavors children love: spicy ginger and cinnamon, semi-sweet chocolate morsels, smooth, delectable bananas, plus the crunchiness of walnuts.

After baking remove the Cananas from the juice cans to cool completely. Then return them to the can for easy, safe packing in your camper's "care" package.

Nourishing banana treats are ideal for kids at camp. And when you send them to your camper you're offering a treasury of nutrients. The Banana Bunch, an industry-sponsored center for consumer information about bananas reminds us that bananas contain a good supply of Vitamins A, B6, and C, important to the growth of children. And healthful bananas are low in sodium and practically fat-free.

So make your next camper's "care" package say "I care" with bright, nourishing banana treats.

CANANAS

1-3rd cup soft butter or margarine

2-3rds cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon ginger
1 egg
1 2-3rds cups sifted all-purpose flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups mashed ripe bananas (about 4 medium bananas)

1 package (6 ounces) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1/2 cup chopped walnuts

In a large bowl cream butter, sugar, cinnamon and ginger until light and fluffy. Beat in egg. Mix flour, baking powder, and salt; blend in alternately with bananas. Stir in chocolate pieces and nuts. Half fill 10 greased 6-ounce juice cans or 18 greased 2-inch muffin cups. Bake in 375 degree F. over 25 to 30 minutes, or until cake tester inserted in center of cakes comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes, remove from cans or muffin cups and cool completely on cooling racks.

YIELD: 10 can cakes or 18 muffins.

"HI THERE" COOKIES

1/2 cup soft butter or margarine
1 cup packed light brown sugar
1 egg
1 1/2 cups mashed ripe bananas (4 medium bananas)
1 cup whole wheat flour
1 cup uncooked oats, quick or regular
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1 banana, sliced
1/4 cup raisins

In a large bowl cream butter and brown sugar. Beat in egg. Blend in bananas, flour, oats, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. Drop by rounded tablespoons onto a greased baking sheet and spread with the back of spoon into 2 to 2 1/2 inch circles, 1-inch apart. Cut banana slices in half and arrange with raisins to make a face on each cookie. Make eyebrows, nose and mouth with halved banana slices and use raisins for eyes. Bake in 375 degree F. oven 15 to 20 minutes.

YIELD: 2 dozen.

YATESVILLE PRODUCERS

The June 28th meeting of the Yatesville Producers was held in the Engle home with Lisa Cook, vice president, calling the meeting to order. Pledges were led by Scott Cook, and Randy Beekman called the roll. Sandy Beekman gave the treasurer's report.

Advisors gave enrollment sheets to members, which are due July 15. Each reported on his or her project. Randy Beekman gave a safety report on Welding and the meeting was adjourned. The club played basketball and softball for recreation and refreshments were served by the Engles.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Ben and Cynthia Iden on July 12.

Sandy Beekman, reporter

DIGNIFIED DOERS

Cindy Dennis brought to order the meeting of the Dignified Doers 4-H Club and Vicki Shipley led the pledges. Roll call was answered by "Are you going to join 4-H in the coming year?" Christina Taylor read the minutes.

Club members in the nutrition group supplied the cookies for Carnegie Public Library Summer Reading Program, for three days. These girls names are Carla Chrisman, Chrystal Chrisman, Kelley Helsel, Lorre Black, Tracy Webb, Alene Kuhn and Luann Shaffer, Christina Taylor, and Vicki Shipley.

"What do you do in case of shock?" was the title of the safety report.

It was announced that girls in the Junior Teen Style Review must be there at 7:00 p.m. July 26, for grades 6 to 8. For the Senior Style Review for grades 9 through 12, girls are urged to be present at 7 p.m. on July 27.

Rhonda Hecoax motioned for adjournment and Marilyn Langley seconded. Demonstrations by Christina Taylor and Tracy Webb were entitled "Selecting Wallpaper" and "Posture Counts".

Marilyn Langley, reporter

BUZZ'N DUZZ'N

How do you obtain the "Total look of your outfit?" This is what the members of the Buzz'n Duzz'n 4-H Club learned from a film borrowed from the Extension Office. Also the members borrowed envelopes of "Helpful suggestions" of our sewing projects.

Hostesses for the meeting were Kristin and Pam Herdman. Diane Davis, conducted the meeting and appointed Teresa Rhinehart to lead the pledges. Polly Houler gave minutes of the last meeting and they were approved. Susan Kile, treasurer, made a report of the money earned from a garage and bake sale. A motion was made by Kristin Herdman and Susan Kile to donate clothing left over from the garage and bake sale to the A-OK 4-H Club.

Toni Hoyer, safety leader, and Susan Stone, health leader, gave very interesting reports. Toni's was entitled "Safety of Hiking." Susan's was "Care of Ears." She drew a poster showing the parts of the ears.

Demonstrations were given by the following club members: Melissa Orihood-Artificial Respiration, with Pam Herdman; Susan Kile's report was "The Proper Way to Wash Your Hands for Home Nursing," and Nancy Matindale's was "How to set a table for an informal guest dinner."

The next meeting of the club will be July 6 in the home of Karin Klontz, at 1:30 p.m. Demonstrations will be made by Teresa Rhinehart and Toni Hoyer.

For the next meeting, club members were asked to bring fabric samples from their project making for style revue cards.

Following adjournment, refreshments were served by Kristin and Pam Herdman.

STAUNTON STITCH AND STIR

The Staunton Stitch and Stir 4-H Club held its seventh meeting on June 23 in the home of Inez and Miranda Haines. While waiting for all of the members to arrive, Mrs. Pero asked those present how much work had been done on projects. The formal meeting began when Susie Pero called the meeting to order. Amy Sever led the pledges. The secretary, Kitty Pero gave the roll call, which was answered by each member telling a favorite part of the tour. Kitty Pero then read the minutes from the last meeting.

The club sang "Head, Shoulders, Knees, and Toes" and "The Bullfrog Song". Dedee Pero gave a health report on "Dandelions". Mrs. Pero reminded the members to each bring $1.00 for Camp Clifton Improvements to the next meeting. Mrs. Pero also asked if anyone would need to have clothing judged early. Members were reminded to think about ideas for the club's booth.

Stephanie Garland moved that the meeting be adjourned and Laurie Merritt seconded the motion. For recreation, members enjoyed playing volleyball. Inez and Miranda served refreshments. The next meeting will be a swimming party at the home of Laurie Merritt on July 14 at 2 p.m. Tracy Taylor will help with refreshments.

Margaret Peterson, reporter

RIP 'N' STITCH

Forth coming activities were discussed at the June 21 meeting of the Rip 'N' Stitch 4-H club, when president Jona St. Clair called the meeting to order. Pledges were led by Sue Slover and Jona St. Clair. Roll Call was answered by "Are projects finished?" and was called by Jona in the absence of Secretary Tracy Scott.

"Childhood Poisoning" was the health report given by Angie Stires. Ellen Zoodsma gave a safety report on "Water Safety." Wendy Groves gave a demonstration on "Filling Your Basket". Lori Barton selected "Making a Wastecan" as the topic of her demonstration.

Members were reminded of two important dates. One is July 9 which is the Car Wash and Bake Sale. It will be held at the Township Hall in Jeffersonville and will begin at 9 a.m. Each member is to bring two articles for the Bake Sale. July 7 is another important date. This will be the Mother's Tea. It will begin at 2:00 p.m. and be held at the Jeffersonville Church of Christ in the Fellowship Hall. There will be a Style Show of the finished projects modeled by the girls for their mothers. Projects books are to be done and brought to the meeting. Members are reminded to bring one dozen tea cookies.

Motion for adjournment was made by Lori Barton and seconded by Kathy Warnock.

Refreshments were served to the 19 members present by Robin Rayburn and Deanna Evans.

General better off if class had slept

By WALTER R. Mears
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — More often than not, commencement addresses are good occasions for a nap. Lt. Gen. Donn A. Starry would have been better off if the graduating class had slept through his.

Instead, part of the audience paid attention, and he became embroiled in a new installment of the old argument over the proper boundaries of political and foreign policy comment by military officers.

Starry's indiscretions were political and diplomatic — or undiplomatic. Officially, his error was that he failed to get Pentagon clearance for the speech he made to graduates of the American High School in Frankfurt, Germany.

It didn't cost him much, just a day's inconvenience to stop by the Pentagon for a half-hour lecture from the boss. He was admonished, then sent on his way to a new job and a promotion to four-star rank.

Both were arranged before he gave the speech that stirred the trouble. He is to take charge at the Army Training and Doctrine Command, which runs the service's schools. The promotion to four stars awaits Senate confirmation.

In the offending speech, Starry told his young audience that within their lifetimes "the Soviets will fight the Chinese, possibly simply continuing their 10-year-old border conflict, but more probably in a major war." He said it is likely the United States would become involved.

He also took out after "the liberals," saying they had tried to bury God, and that they dominate a press "which is not interested in the truth, only in the 5 per cent or so of the news that deviates from the norm."

Starry thus made the 5 per cent. His case hardly ranked with that of Maj. Gen. John K. Singlaub, ordered home from South Korea after saying President Carter's planned withdrawal of U.S. ground forces would lead to war there.

Singlaub contradicted the policy of his civilian commander. There isn't any policy on the issue Starry raised, although it is reasonable to assume that the United States would prefer not to see, let alone become involved in a major war between Russia and China.

So the issues raised by Starry's scolding are more difficult. "If our generals are slowly silenced to the point that they cannot discuss with young people matters that do not come under announced policy of the commander in chief, then we are in for real trouble," said Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

But the Pentagon has told U.S. military commanders that even before policy is set, it may be contrary to the national interest for top military men to discuss it publicly.

That message went out with a reminder of the requirement that speeches and statements be submitted for advance clearance by the Defense Department's Directorate of Security

Review and Freedom of Information. If Starry had sent his in, a Pentagon official said, it probably would have gone back to him with a letter suggesting that he reconsider the implications of his statements on war between Russia and China, and that he also consider whether he should involve himself in domestic politics with his comments about liberals.

In other words, it doesn't take a censor to make the point to a general. Over the right signature, a suggestion

Ohio Perspective

Bias amendment stirs fuss

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A controversial amendment almost forced a Senate floor vote on whether Ohio should study alternatives of bussing to achieve racial balance in schools.

Sen. Thomas A. Van Meter, R-19 Ashland, offered the amendment which would have limited the proposed legislative study to alternatives, while eliminating scrutiny of other ramifications of desegregation problems in schools, especially those in Ohio's big cities.

Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, sprung to his feet to accuse Van Meter of making a "blatant attempt" to force a vote on an issue that would "only serve to inflame the issue further." To vote for the Van Meter amendment, Meshel said, would delete other language in the study resolution to which majority Democrats were committed.

Jobless claims show decline

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The number of newly unemployed persons filing claims with the Bureau of Employment Services dropped 5.3 per cent last week from the week preceding.

A spokesman said 12,901 jobless Ohioans filed claims during the week ending June 25, compared to 13,627 the week before.

The bureau estimated the number of unemployed in Ohio as 115,870.

is enough. "There's nothing new about the system, and it has caused controversy before. Fifteen years ago, a Senate investigating committee said it was appropriate for the Pentagon to check and clear public statements in advance.

Despite the controversies over Singlaub and Starry, the Pentagon's civilian managers still are urging military men to speak to the public and to reporters. They want it done with care, and in keeping with policy, and with clearance for the speeches.

That's a tall order, but Secretary of Defense Harold Brown tells military commanders it is part of the job. It will be a difficult part, especially now that they have seen two of their colleagues called on the administration carpet for saying the wrong things. For a while, at least, a good many top military men may decide that silence is the better part of valor.

been running short anyway due to partisan differences over the state budget bill.

When it comes to vocalizing, Ohio lawmakers take a back seat to no-one.

Rep. Waldo Bennett Rose, a particularly energetic Republican orator, was railing away at Democrats for splitting the state budget into three rather confusing bills, when he was interrupted by Finance Committee Chairman Myrl Shoemaker, a Democrat.

"Ben," Shoemaker said, "by separating them, you've got three different speeches you can make." Rose smiled, but went on undeterred when the roll was called: "I'd like to explain my vote ..."

Hours later, however, when he rose to make the final GOP floor speech on the budget, Rose clicked on a stopwatch, and limited himself to five minutes.

Airshow crowd exceeds 2,000

Rod Rich, President, Fayette County Pilot's Association, estimates the record-breaking crowd at Sunday's Air Show exceeded 2,000. Seven hundred cars were parked.

A total of 106 aircraft rides were given and trophies were awarded. There were 40 visiting aircraft in addition to the planes participating in the show.

Association members were pleased with the tremendous response to one of the finest Air Shows ever presented in this area.

Jaycees select finalists for annual July Fourth coronation

Eleven county girls to vie for 'Little Miss Firecracker' title

Eleven finalists have been selected to compete in this year's "Little Miss Firecracker" contest.

One of the eleven Fayette County girls will reign over the Washington C.H. Jaycees Fourth of July celebration and festivities at the Fayette County Fairgrounds Monday. The "Little Miss Firecracker" selection will be made by a panel of judges beginning at 12 noon Monday in the Mahan Building.

The winner of the competition will be crowned by a previous year's winner. Miss Mary Chrisman won the contest last year. She is the daughter of Mrs. Beverly Chrisman and Jim Chrisman.

This year's finalists are:

Miss Stacy Gustin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Gustin, 1508 Anderson Road;

Miss Dawn Renee Bennington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bennington, Jr. of 29 Cross Street, Bloomingburg;

Angel and Shannan Blevins, daughters of Mrs. Linda Blevins, 922 Lakeview Ave.;

Miss Amy Diane Park, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Danny Park, of 12945 Reid Road;

Angie Huffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Huffman, 433 Comfort Lane;

Miss Mindy Dancan Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest D. Wilson of 11 State St. in Jeffersonville;

MINDY WILSON

EVAELYN REDDEN

Miss Carmia Jean Dunn, daughter of Mrs. Lori Dunn, 528 Gibbs Ave.;

Miss Cathy Bell, daughter of Richard Bell of 732 Columbus Ave.;

Evaelyan Lena Redden, daughter of Mrs. Terry Redden of 724 Sycamore St.; and Christina Puckett, daughter of Mrs. Norma Puckett of 6166 Phillips Road-SE.

Following the Little Miss Firecracker contest and coronation ceremony, games and contests, sponsored by the Jaycees, will be held on the fairgrounds throughout the day.

The day's festivities will be topped off by the annual fireworks display, which is also sponsored by the Jaycees, to be held in front of the fairgrounds' grandstand.

Rules help freight forwarders

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — It's been a tedious battle — in the courts, Congress, the regulatory agencies, the public mind — to modernize rail shipping. But it is getting done, slowly.

Today we have Conrail (a consolidation of bankrupt Northeast and Midwest lines) and unit trains (one origin, one destination, one shipper) and through trains (one engine hauls the cars despatched traveling on various rail systems).

And less well known, we have a new regulation that permits some packages to be shipped long distances by rail without various parties handling it, sometimes at the expense of the consignee and consignor.

This is the story, which incidentally takes a somewhat unusual turn.

Businesses with shipments of less than a full carload have only one source of rail transportation, now that the railroads themselves are out of the business. They can have a freight forwarder handle the small shipments at its terminals and combines them into full carloads, which the railroads then accept for shipment.

However, the freight forwarder in recent years had been running into an increasing amount of troubles because of certain limitations set by the Interstate Commerce Commission, which has the unenviable job of trying to maintain order where chaos tends to advance like a jungle.

The chief limitation was to restrict the forwarder in the radius within which he could pick up and deliver, because it was felt that the trucking industry had claims to that area. The radius might be only five miles.

Beyond that area, the freight forwarder often had to contact a trucker to pick up the shipment and deliver it to his terminal. At the other end, he might also have to pay a trucker to deliver the shipment.

These restrictions were set up in the mid-1940s, and in those days, you might recall, business was more geographically concentrated. Since then, industry has crept out along major highways, and sometimes leaped far into the suburbs.

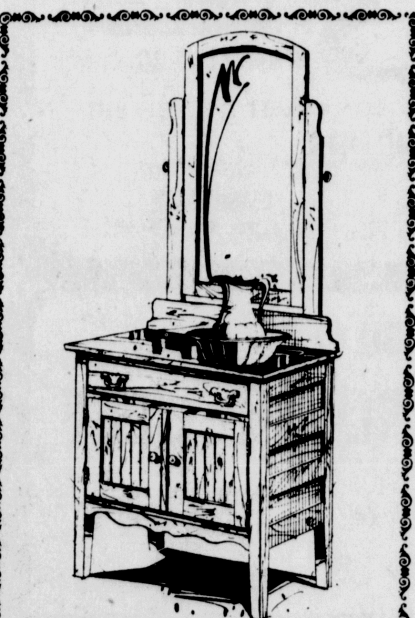

The new rules take into consideration the demographic and economic diffusion that has taken place in the past 30 years. In effect the so-called "terminal areas" have been expanded about 50 per cent on average, in a formula tied to population.

Lawrence Berman, vice president of Transway International Corp., the nation's biggest freight forwarder, cited the significant expansion of terminal area authority in the San Francisco Bay area as an example.

"Since the population of San Francisco is between 500,000 and 1 million," Berman said, "the terminal area is expanded from the five-mile radius established in 1946 to 15 miles."

Now the unexpected twist: While Transway, among many others, has the authority to pick up in expanded areas around its terminals — more than 200 in every state — it probably won't do so. Instead, it will rely on the trucking industry it sometimes criticized.

"We hope instead," said G. Russell Moir, chairman, "that since we now have the ability to do it ourselves, if need be, we can prevail on the existing carriers to give us the kind of service we need and at a cost we can afford."

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

The board of directors of the Fayette County Historical Society are very pleased with the response of residents of Fayette County to visit the (Fayette County) museum which is opened now to the public every Sunday from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. until Sept. 25.

Many of the visitors, lifelong residents of Fayette County, had never visited the museum and were most impressed with the many interesting articles.

This next Sunday, July 3, the Kiwanis Community Band has graciously consented to play at the museum. Everyone is cordially invited.

The tour of the museum costs $1 for adults and 25 cents for students. Children under 12 are admitted free.

Since there was no membership drive last October, memberships at $2 each may be purchased at the museum, or the money can be sent to the treasurer, Mrs. O.C. Jenkins, 2148 Jasper Coil Road. Membership cards will be returned.

Do come visit our museum soon. Marguerite Jenkins

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

I wish to use your media to express my sincere thanks to a very special group of families in our community, who have just opened their homes and their hearts to the 42 AFS students who spent the weekend in Fayette County.

They (the AFS students) have spent the past school year going to school in Wisconsin. The bus trip is their "last fling" before departing for their native countries.

Thirty countries were represented and I think that most people will agree they are wonderful ambassadors from their countries to ours.

My thanks also to Mrs. James Greene, Miami Trace Adult Chapter AFS president; Phil Lewis, Tim Carson, and Rick White of the Record-Herald staff; Capt. Larry Hott for the use of the Armory for the talent show; the Washington C.H. Rotary Club; and Bob Bane and Steve Ross for the use of the swimming pool. It helped to make the weekend such a big success, and I appreciate the help they all gave me.

To all the families who hosted these wonderful young people, made them feel so welcome, and entertained them, I can only hope that they enjoyed the AFS experience, and will help us keep AFS going in Fayette County.

The AFS motto is "Walk Together, Talk Together". We all did that this past weekend, and are richer for it. Thanks again to all of you for your support and help to me.

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

One issue that all members of the Reserve Officers Association (ROA) are completely in agreement is in their opposition to unions in armed forces. This strong opposition has been reflected in ROA national conventions. We are concerned at the possibilities of militant unionism in the Ohio militia forces under Senate Bill 222.

Ohio militia forces are exempted from the provisions of S.B. 222 while serving on active duty. However, members of the National Guard are civilians while not serving in uniform on active duty. They are not exempt if they are also state or municipal employees. If other Ohio public employees were to strike and an emergency arose whereby the Governor called the National Guard to active duty, the last resort of law and order in a civil disturbance or natural disaster, could join in a sympathy strike simply by avoiding recall to active duty.

There appears to be no way to allow unions and strikes for public employees and still be sure of the National Guard in an emergency. But even if satisfactory wording were found, other questions would arise.

Why should only militia be so exempted from S.B. 222 but not police and firefighters? Do not these paramilitary organizations have at least as great and more immediate duty to respond in public emergencies to protect lives and property? Reasoning further, do not other public employees have duties and obligations to public wellbeing, such as public school teachers?

It seems clear that any proposed legislation that mandates agency shop unionism with the right to strike for public employees — even with the hope of exempting the National Guard — is too questionable a step for the Ohio Legislature to benefit either the public or public employees.

Swanton woman wins $80,000

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mary Jane Hughes of Swanton, who won $80,000 Thursday in the Ohio Lottery's Pot O' Gold game, also earned another chance next week to reach the maximum prize of $250,000.

This was the second time that the 51-year-old bookkeeper at Bettinger Farms in Fulton County has been the top money winner in the weekly drawing. Last week she won $95,000.

"I don't know what to say," she said of her second-round luck, "other than I'm that much more excited."

She said she plans to save some of her winnings and donate some to the Appaloosa Youth Foundation, of which she is national vice president. Mrs. Hughes said that her husband raised appaloosa horses and was national director of the foundation before he died four years ago.

She still owns a few appaloosas and lends them for breeding.

Ohio Lottery spokesmen said other winners were Almore Baumann of Huron, $10,300; Leona Loterbaugh of Cleveland, $8,600; Millard Peebles of Cleveland, $8,000; Donald Schreiber of South Euclid, $7,500 and Patricia Bevins of Columbus, $6,900.

The TV bonus winners were Stu Leventhal of Cincinnati, $50,000; Nancy Videnich of Cleveland, $10,000 and Lucinda Barry of Middletown, $5,000. The winning numbers Pot O' Gold numbers were 273, 690 and 06953.

Perez trading starting to pay off?

Foster, Driessen, Morgan batter San Fran pitching

CINCINNATI (AP) — Just as the bottom seemed ready to drop out of the Cincinnati Reds' sagging bullpen, tall Texan Dale Murray has stepped in to fortify it with his blazing fastball.

"Murray's really throwing now. He's really going after the hitters. That's the Dale we used to know," Reds Manager Sparky Anderson said after Murray's third straight encouraging outing Thursday. He preserved an 11-5 victory over San Francisco that was keyed by torrid-hitting Dan Driessen, who drove in four runs.

"Murray's a lifesaver for us if he comes around. I think he's getting over the jitters now," Anderson said.

Murray, who has reduced his earned run average drastically to 3.99, feels ready to take his place alongside Pedro Borbon, the only consistently effective Reds reliever this year.

"I've got my confidence back now. I decided that rather than worry about the hitters, I'll let the hitters worry about me," said Murray, acquired from Montreal last winter with Woodie Fryman for Tony Perez and Willie McEnaney.

He said he is confident that he has recaptured the form that enabled him to win 15 games for the Expos in 1975.

"In my last three outings, I've felt that good. I've felt as good as I've felt in four runs."

Murray's save came after Fryman, 4-5, limited the Giants to two runs and two hits in six innings before wilting under oppressive humidity.

The Giants cut the Reds lead to 7-5 on Gary Thomsen's three-run homer in the eighth inning. The homer, off rookie Joe Henderson, was the latest battering of the Reds bullpen. Henderson's ERA soared to 14.71, while 40-year-old Joe Hoerner has a 15.00 mark and demoted starter Paul Moskau stands at 12.86.

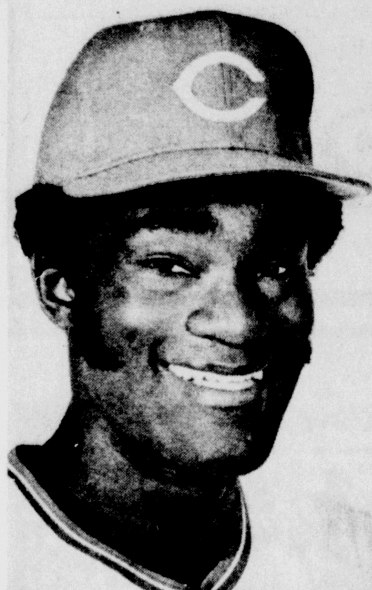

Giants Manager Joe Altobelli doesn't buy the argument that the Reds have riddled their pitching staff through the massive trades of two weeks ago.

"Everybody's crying about the Reds' pitching, but pitching's something that can change in a hurry. They've got quite a team. They've got a lot of guys over there," said Altobelli.

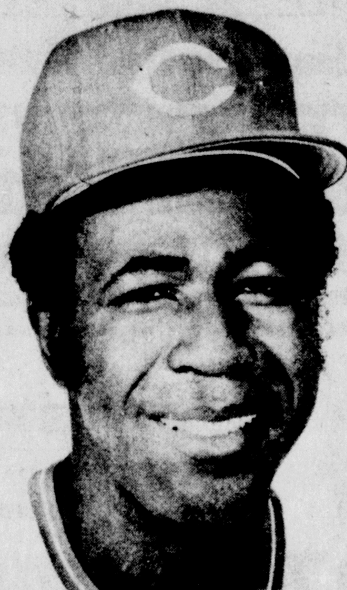

Driessen had three homers and a walk to raise his batting average to a season-high .309, up 40 points since two weeks ago.

"I'm just swinging the bat real good now," said Driessen. "I got off to a slow start, but now I'm really feeling good up there."

Joe Morgan scored five times to take over second places in the National League with 62 runs scored. George Foster, who began the day with 67 runs batted in, one behind league leader Steve Garvey, drove in two runs with a fourth-inning double.

Phils blast away on Pirates, 8-1

Schmidt ties June HR mark

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer

The Philadelphia Phillies' fans really gave it to Mike Schmidt this time — but it was bouquets instead of boos.

Accustomed to jeers at Veterans Stadium earlier this season because of a poor start, Schmidt got a standing ovation for a change Thursday night.

He earned it by tying a National League home run record for June with his 14th homer of the month as the Phillies beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-1.

The rare ovation for the third baseman caught him short.

"I was in the runway didn't even have a hat on," said Schmidt, explaining his delay in responding to the fans' noisy salute.

Schmidt tied the mark set by Ralph Kiner of the Pirates in 1947. The major league record of 15 is shared by Babe Ruth (1930), Bob Johnson (1934) and Roger Maris (1961).

In other National League games, the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Chicago Cubs 2-1, the Atlanta Braves trimmed the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-4, the New York Mets edged the Montreal Expos 4-3, and the Cincinnati Reds outscored the San Francisco Giants 11-5.

The Phillies helped left-hander Steve Carlton to his 10th victory against four losses with a four-run first inning, keyed by Bake McBride's leadoff triple and a two-run homer by Garry Maddox. The Pirates' Bob Johnson hit a single and scored on a sacrifice fly. Schmidt tallied on Maddox' seventh homer.

Cardinals 2, Cubs 1
Ken Reitz' grounder scored Tony Scott from third in the ninth inning, lifting St. Louis over Chicago. Scott singled with one out off Chicago's Willie Hernandez and raced to third on a hit by Ted Simmons before Keith Hernandez was intentionally walked, loading the bases.

Paul Reusch relieved Hernandez against Reitz and the St. Louis infielder hit a grounder to second baseman Manny Trillo on which the Cubs just failed to convert into an inning-ending double play.

Braves 5, Dodgers 4
Darrel Chaney's run-scoring single off Los Angeles relief ace Charlie Hough in the bottom of the ninth boosted Atlanta over the Dodgers.

Angels 'drop like flies'

ANAHEIM (AP) — The California Angels are, in the words of General Manager Harry Dalton, "dropping like flies." And things don't figure to get much better in the near future.

It was to be determined today if shortstop Bobby Grich, who signed a five-year, $1.5 million contract last fall, will require surgery on his ailing back.

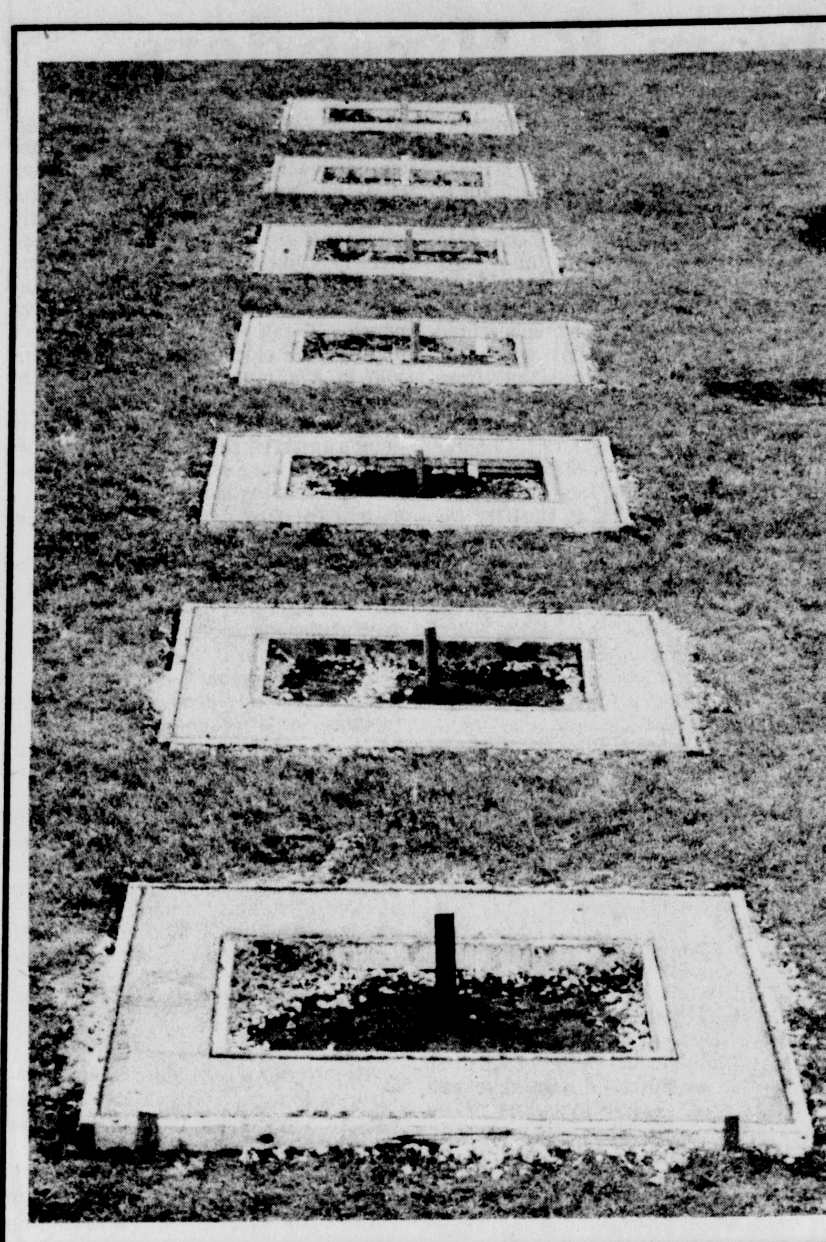

Outfielder Joe Rudi, who signed a five-year, $2.1 million contract, is on the Angels' supplemental disabled list because of a broken bone in his hand suffered when he was hit by a Nelson Briles pitch last Sunday.

Don Baylor, the third of the talented trio signed by Angels' owner Gene Autrey, has a pulled hamstring muscle.

Rookie shortstop Rance Mulliniks has a hamstring injury and is on a day-to-day basis.

Leagues and tournaments will be scheduled upon completion.

Little League action

In Jeffersonville Little League last night, the Fayette County Bank sewed up the championship with an 11-1 win over Colonial. County Bank winds up the season with a perfect 10-0 record.

Last night, David Perrill won the game and Pete Robinson took the loss. The championship for the Bank goes with the County Bank's crown in the softball division, also.

The Little League will conclude on July 4 with games to be played all day followed by fireworks at 9 p.m.

In Washington C.H. Little League, K of C aired out their bats, pounding Landmark by a score of 35-8. In other games, Bumgarner beat Craigs, 22-4, and the Mo-Pars beat the Levi Boys, 4-2.

No report on the La-Z-Boys and Flashes contest was made available to the Record-Herald.

Babe Ruth

The Stingers beat Girtens last night, 15-2. John Ruggels picked up another win and had plenty of offensive punch behind him. Paul Prater collected two doubles, Dave Robinson had a triple and John St. Clair cracked a pair of two-base hits and knocked in four runs.

Johnson thanks Yanks for playing

TORONTO (AP) — "Happiness," says Cliff Johnson, "is going to the plate four times a night."

So it would seem that going to the plate five times, as he did Thursday night, would make Johnson absolutely giddy. Not so.

"I'm not gonna get too high when I'm going good or too low when I'm going bad," Johnson said after slamming three home runs, including a record-tying two in an eight-run eighth-inning as the New York Yankees pounded the Toronto Blue Jays 11-5.

In the only other American League game Thursday night, the Cleveland Indians defeated the Baltimore Orioles 4-2 on Wayne Garland's five-hit pitching and Frank Duffy's two solo homers. The game was called after 6½ innings because of rain.

"Three home runs doesn't mean anything if you don't come back the next night and help the club," Johnson said.

Johnson, acquired June 15 from Houston for two minor leaguers and a player to be named later, will get plenty of chances to help the Yankees this weekend when they return home to face three left-handers in four games against Detroit.

His three homers came as a designated hitter, but Johnson has played first base and the outfield and done some catching during his career. And, says Manager Billy Martin, Johnson will be the DH against certain right-handers.

Johnson was hit by a pitch from loser Jerry Garvin in the second inning, hit a solo homer in the fourth, walked in the sixth, homered starting the eighth and capped the eight-run inning with a two-run homer off Jerry Johnson after the Toronto reliever brushed him back with a high inside pitch.

Johnson thus became the 18th player in major league history to hit two home runs in one inning, and the first Yankee to do it since Joe Pepitone in 1962. The last American Leaguer was California's Rick Reichardt in 1966.

The Yankees' big inning also included a solo homer by Lou Piniella and a three-run shot by Thurman Munson, who drove in the game's first run with a sacrifice fly. Meanwhile, Catfish Hunter scattered seven hits and allowed only one run until the Yankees built a comfortable 10-1 lead in the eighth.

At Cleveland, Garland, 5-8, struck out four, walked one and retired the last 11 Baltimore batters. The loser was Ross Grimsley, 7-4.

Connors meets Borg in finals

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Jimmy Connors paces the back line of a tennis court like a restless caged bear. He tugs at his shirt sleeve. He slaps a hand against his hip. He digs his toes into the ground in the fashion of a fractious thoroughbred. He counts every string on his racket and, head bowed, bounces the ball four times before every serve.

He looks like a bundle of energy seeking to flee its fetters. Strike a match to him and he would certainly explode.

Bjorn Borg is a stoical Swede. Tornados swirl all around him, the ground shakes and the sea gets turbulent but he doesn't bat an eyelash. Blond, bearded, blue-eyed, he is the unflappable Viking.

Batter him, bend him, test every stanchion of his steel and he remains as frigid as a winter day in the Alps.

Fire and ice — that's the lineup of Saturday's final in the All-England Championships at Wimbledon. And make no mistake about it, there will be a lot of thunder.

Connors, 24, approaches a tennis match the way Rocky Graziano always did a prize fight. It is war. Animosity and intensity seethe from every pore. Everybody is an enemy — not just his opponent but the umpire and linesmen and even the crowd.

The scrappy kid from Belleville, Ill., seems to put himself into some hypnotic state. He glowers, he fumes, he grunts on every serve. When fortunes go against him, he can fly into angry tantrums, yelling epithets and making gestures to the spectators.

There is a touch of arrogance about him, the way he moves around the court with his shoulders hunched and his head sinking down to his chest.

Independent, defiant, he has emerged as the Peck's bad boy of the game.

Borg, 21, on the other hand, is tennis' "golden boy," a Davis Cup player at age 15, a world class player before he learned to shave and now recognized as one of the most talented and fiercest competitors the sport has known.

"Bjorn never thinks about the point just played, his adversary or the crowd," an English commentator said.

1. The contract is ice cold regardless of how the missing cards are divided. To assure making the slam, draw another round of trumps, then cash the A-K of clubs and A-K of hearts. If both defenders follow suit in hearts, your only possible loser is a heart, so let's assume the worst — that one opponent has the Q-10-x-x of hearts.

If North is the player with the Q-10-x-x you play the four of diamonds to dummy's nine. (If North produces the jack or ten, you play dummy's queen.) South wins but must yield a ruff and discard or return a diamond. In either case, you get rid of both your heart losers.

If South is the player with the Q-10-x-x, you make the slam by simply leading a diamond to dummy's ace and returning a heart towards your J-9.

2. Despite a striking similarity between this hand and the previous one, there is a world of difference in the correct approach to the play. (Both hands were composed by the Israeli expert, Paul Lukacs.)

Again you can guarantee the slam against any distribution. But because this time dummy has the eight of diamonds instead of the nine and also has an extra entry in the form of the king of clubs, you attack the problem altogether differently.

Draw the one missing trump, cash the ace of hearts (let's assume both defenders follow low), cash the ace of diamonds and ruff a diamond. Next cash the A-K of clubs and ruff the queen of diamonds.

Having eliminated both minor suits, you then confidently play the nine of hearts. If North has the Q-10-x-x, he wins with the ten but must return a heart to your K-J or yield a ruff and discard.

If South is the player with the Q-10-x-x, he must win and return a heart, allowing you to take the proven finesse, or return a minor suit, which gives you a ruff and discard as well as the contract.

When you're turned out to pasture, will it still be green?

Maybe your life's pretty good right now. But if you want to keep it that way, you've got to plan for it. And one way you can do just that is by signing up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. An amount you specify will be set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. Then, when you're ready to stop working, you'll still be able to keep on living.

Now U.S. Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.

Ohioans get good food-shopping news

By JOE MCKNIGHT
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Happiness can be a small drop in grocery prices and that's what happened this month in The Associated Press Ohio Marketbasket survey.

The 2 per cent drop is the first turnaround since September 1976 for the monthly check on retail costs of selected supermarket items. Prices on the 16 checklist items among 16 cities averaged $23.85 at the end of June, compared to $24.33 a month earlier. Average price a year ago was $19.51 and two years ago it was $18.10.

Even so, the direction of costs on some items made a case for backyard gardens and chicken coops.

Coffee averages dropped 5.7 per cent, the first decline since the Brazilian bean crop was hurt by cold weather a year or so ago. Cost of a three-pound can of name-brand coffee ranged from $7.54 at Massillon to $11.99 at Athens.

Shoppers who want to buy in bulk may find some bargains if they have access to Ohio Farm Bureau stores operating under the name of Landmark, Inc. Most sell only in bulk, a sixpound ham, 8-12 pounds of cheese, etc.

Supermarket price competition that blossomed in spots around Ohio the past couple of months is having partial success. The chain that advertises everyday low prices and the one that won't be undersold are losing some, winning some.

Price comparison over a two-week period in one warring supermarket in Columbus showed costs on 16 items escalated a total of $2.04 over a two-week period, with nine items going up, three going down and four remaining unchanged.

In Cleveland, costs on a dozen items in the same chain showed nine were higher than some competing grocers, while two were lower and one was the same.

Eight of the 16 AP shopping list items declined at the end of June from the end of May. Seven others went up and one—peanut butter at 74 cents per 12 ounce jar—remained unchanged.

A 12-ounce pack of frozen orange juice dropped on average by 6.6 per cent, down from 75 to 70 cents. Chuck roast per pound dropped 5.8 per cent, from $1.02 to 96 cents, and five pounds of granulated sugar declined 5.7 per cent, from $1.04 to 98 cents, all on averages among various stores in all cities shopped.

Offsetting that was a 12 per cent jump in a pound of tomatoes, up from 50 to 56 cents over the month, and a 10.7 per cent rise in the per pound cost of whole frying chickens, up from 56 to 62 cents. Average cost on a dozen medium white eggs rose seven per cent, from 56 to 60 cents.

A half-gallon of whole milk increased 3.9 per cent and 10 pounds of white potatoes went up on averages by 3.6 per cent.

Elsewhere on the list, a pound of hamburger increased 1.2 per cent, center cut pork chops increased 2.3 per cent, and a pound of stick margarine rose .8 per cent.

A 49-ounce box of name-brand detergent declined 1.3 per cent, a 14½ ounce pack of chocolate chip cookies declined one per cent and a head of lettuce declined 1.9 per cent.

Costs declined in eight cities, rose in seven and no comparison was available for the other city surveyed.

Price comparisons among cities, with latest average cost and per cent of change over the month, include:

Athens, $26.08, down 5.9 per cent; Canton, $20.11, down .9 per cent; Chillicothe, $25.20, no comparison available; Cincinnati, $25.88, down 3.5 per cent; Cleveland, $21.30, down 15 per cent; Columbus, $25.10, up 5.5 per cent; Conneaut, $24.43, up .4 per cent; Findlay, $23.96, up one per cent; Fremont, $24.21, up .04 per cent; Massillon, $19.77, down 6.5 per cent; Portsmouth, $26.50, down 2.5 per cent; Salem, $23.75, up 2.9 per cent; Steubenville, $25.65, up 2.6 per cent; Toledo, $21.34, down 2.5 per cent; Van Wert, $25.95, up 5.8 per cent; Youngstown, $22.33, down one per cent.

Timely tips for yard, garden

July winds dry garden soils

By JOHN P. GRUBER
County Extension Agent

Soil moisture supplies in the garden can be depleted quickly with hot drying July winds. Some soil moisture is lost by direct evaporation from the soil surface. Other moisture is absorbed from the soil by the plant and lost through the leaves.

Plant growth will be slowed down as the soil dries out. In the case of some vegetables such as tomatoes and peppers, abnormalities may develop. Quality and quantity of vegetable production will also be affected.

These and other related problems can be avoided with supplemental irrigation. A good soaking once a week during dry periods will do the job.

A good rule of thumb is that about one inch of rain (or irrigation) per week will result in a good crop from the garden. DO NOT make frequent light waterings. This will cause more damage by creating shallow root development.

The need for irrigation can be reduced through the use of a soil mulch to help reduce evaporation.

Tomatoes on potato plants? Not really. But in recent years the question has come up frequently.

Those small, round, green fruit that sometimes form on potatoes are actually potato seed balls that are of no value to the home gardener. They may be removed or left on the plant.

The potato and tomato are in the same botanical family and the fruits of the two plants are similar in the immature stage.

Prop up heavily loaded fruit trees that have limbs beginning to sag as fruit continues to develop. Heavy fruit loads could break limbs particularly in high winds. Propping branches can help reduce this danger.

Steel mill plans aired

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP) — Responding to prodding from environmentalists, U.S. Steel Corp. has outlined its plans to minimize impact of a huge steel mill proposed for a four-mile stretch along the Lake Erie shore.

As two nights of public hearings wound to a close Thursday night, Stephen Curtis, vice president of engineering for U.S. Steel, promised, "We're going to build in the most modern pollution control facilities that have ever been built in a steel plant."

In hearings at Erie, Pa., and Ashtabula, U.S. Steel explained an ambitious plan to completely relocate Turkey Creek, including its marine life, to the eastern end of the proposed mill site.

Dr. John T. Gormley, a Pittsburgh researcher hired by U.S. Steel, said the proposal would involve moving 2.5 million cubic yards of dirt to relocate the 18-mile creek.

Gormley said the shift would involve "relocation of the environment, not just moving water, including replanting of trees."

Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) officials had rejected U.S. Steel's earlier proposal for filling in the Turkey Creek system and diverting the water.

Public office course slated

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Preparing women to run for public office is the aim of a new course Indiana University will offer in the fall.

The project, funded by a $33,000 grant from the Indiana Higher Education Commission, will be conducted by the IU School of Public and Environmental Affairs.

Project director June Shassere says identical one-day Saturday workshops, conducted by the school's Indianapolis-based Division of Public Service, will focus on major issues facing elected officials as well as ways to seek and win nomination and election.

The workshops will be offered during October and November at IU campuses in Bloomington, Indianapolis, Fort Wayne, Gary and South Bend.
